Red Buttons

as we see it

In various cities throughout the country, TV GUIDE editors are asking the more than two million families who buy our magazine each week to help select local television performers "worthy of network attention." At first glance this may appear to be a strange sort of poll. It is, but then television is a strange medium.

TV uses up material and performers so rapidly that some source of supply for new faces is an absolute necessity. Vaudeville is dead. Burlesque is all but gone. The networks, then, must look to night clubs, radio and local television for fresh personalities.

Our feeling is that there is a great deal of talent on local stations just waiting to be discovered. You are the talent scouts. We will give your choices national publicity in an article that will include their pictures and a description of their capabilities.

If this small effort makes it possible for just one new star or show to be born, you and we will be more than compensated.

One more announcement. Before the end of the current television season, we hope to name TV GUIDE's "Show of the Year." Our editors will make the selection, but we will be guided by your suggestions. We want to pick the regular program that not only has offered outstanding entertainment or information, but has made the most notable contribution to the cause dearest to our hearts—better television programming.

We would appreciate your counsel. Please send us the name of the program you would pick, and the reasons for your choice. The address is As We See It, TV GUIDE, 400 N. Broad St., Philadelphia 1, Pa.

TV Teletype*

NEW YORK Bob Stahl reports:

LUCILLE BALL and DESI ARNAZ due in New York the end of this month for the Broadway premiere of their new movie, "The Long, Long Trailer." While in New York, LUCY will be feted at a special luncheon of the Circus Saints and Sinners, a show business organization, and becomes the first woman to be so honored . . . KATHY GODFREY's personal secretary, PHYLLIS BENSON, held the same job at one time for KATHY's brother, ARTHUR.

CHARLIE APPLEWHITE, MILTON BERLE's new singing protege, under consideration for his own 15-minute show. It's further proof, if any were needed, of TV's ability to create stars . . . TED MACK and his Original Amateur Hour planning a special show April 10 to celebrate "1001 Amateur Nights." Now seen on 103 stations, the program will have 119 outlets by that time.

Meet Millie, the show that was brought back to TV by viewer demand, gets its first sponsor in April. At that time, it will move from Saturday nights to Tuesdays at 9 . . . CBS has not decided what show will replace Millie on Saturdays . . . Because of GERTRUDE BERG's recent illness, her appearance in "Morning Star" on U.S. Steel Hour has been postponed to March 2.

Comedian AL BERNIE signed for a once-weekly stint on the KATE SMITH show. BERNIE made his radio debut on KATE's show in 1948 . . . JAMES McCLAIN, who has taken over as Dr. I.Q., held the same job on radio for six years. He quit show business in 1946 to become a minister . . . Comedian JERRY LESTER is co-producing and starring in a new series of five-minute telefilms.

T-Men in Action moves from NBC to ABC late in April, switching from live to film. Borden's, which had been sponsoring T-Men on NBC, is retaining Thursday night time slot and is seeking a crime documentary, a la Dragnet, as replacement. One such show under consideration is WARDEN LEWIS E. LAWES' 20,000 Years in Sing Sing.

NBC's much-heralded Home Show finally kicks off March 1, going Monday through Friday, 11 a.m. to noon. Network set designers have cooked up a permanent set for the show costing $200,000.

HOLLYWOOD

Dan Jenkins reports:

Boomtown is booming again. CBS is reportedly digging into its treasury for $3,000,000 with which to build at least two new studios at Television City, plus the conversion of one of the present studios to color. ABC is getting ready to switch a number of its New York shows to Hollywood and has formed a new corporation with Hal Roach, Jr., to produce TV film series for syndication.

JACKIE GLEASON has about made up his mind to do his show from here next season, and MILTON BERLE is toying seriously with the idea of doing the same thing. Even one of the local independent stations, Paramount's KTLA, has bought the old Warner lot on Sunset Blvd., and is planning to film and syndicate a couple of its shows.

That March 21 JACK BENNY show, recently filmed by GEORGE BURNS' film unit, includes BOB HOPE in addition to BENNY, BURNS and BING CROSBY. About the only way CBS could top itself after that one would be to get PRESIDENT EISENHOWER to demonstrate his painting technique on Omnibus . . . An upcoming episode of My Little Margie is laid in Palm Springs, where CHARLIE FARRELL is the Number One citizen and former mayor. So while FARRELL plays GALE STORM's father, an actor had to be hired to play FARRELL.

CBS-TV making contractual noises at SHEREE NORTH, the girl who danced ("danced?") on that initial BING CROSBY show . . . It's now official by the LORETTA YOUNG show that those lengthy introductions are being cut down to get on with the story . . . Add DR. KINSEY to the growing list of This Is Your Life prospects who have had to be cancelled . . . QUENTIN REYNOLDS will make a series of 13 films called Classified . . . Look for DICK POWELL to make a regular series out of his WILLIE DANTE characterization done on several Four Star Playhouse films.

The big buildup for SALLY MANSFIELD, of Rocky Jones, Space Ranger, started with being "Miss Emmy" for this week's Academy of TV Arts and Sciences Annual Emmy Awards, or would you rather be BILL CULLEN? He's now doing I've Got a Secret in New York Wednesdays, flies to Hollywood to do Place the Face Thursdays, flies right back to New York again to do the "Walk a Mile" radio show Saturdays. And this goes on every week. He's replacing JACK BAILEY on Place the Face, BAILEY to go into a new TV version of "Truth or Consequences" for RALPH EDWARDS -- who owns both.

A survey of "influential groups" reports that TV commercials "infuriate, bore, irritate, deceive the public and destroy their own value." They also do one other little thing -- they foot the bills for your free TV . . . Keep an eye on ANN SOTHERN's Private Secretary. The show is building like compound interest.

Humility Pays for Red Buttons

A Little, Unpretentious Guy Finds Himself In TV's Top 10

HUMILITY is a word that has been kicked around of late in the entertainment business, but it isn't a new word to Red Buttons. Red, now riding high as the star of his own CBS show, has made humility his watchword ever since he first broke into show business.

Red was so darned lovable, that given the chance, he worked himself right into the hallowed orbit of the Top Ten of TV. A year and a half ago, he was new in the stratosphere and he was overly conscious of his background — New York's tough, lower East Side, burlesque, the Borsch circuit; overly conscious of his limited education—high school. And although he was ham enough to want the center of attraction on stage, he was self-conscious about the inner man.

A Little Guy Loaded

To most people though, he was a sweet little guy loaded with a certain kind of talent and no vast audience to appreciate him.

Today, he is in everybody's living room, and he's weighted down by the enormity of it all. Where he once clammed up, ("Don't try to dig too deep, I'm just a little guy trying to do a job.") he now talks easily: "I'm not living for myself anymore. I've had to adopt a one-world policy. I'm a three million-dollar-a-year enterprise with 60 to 70 people directly depending upon me for their jobs."

In the tedious process of becoming a big man, Red developed his greatest selling point, the ability to ingratiate his boyish charm upon viewers. The executive producer of his show, Marlo Lewis, has said repeatedly, "Red's face is his fortune. He's popular because he's such a lovable boy to have around the house."

The Buttons at home: Red and Helayne usually sit around and talk family talk.

While not exactly a boy, (Red is 35) he is normally likable and he became more so. On his shows last year, he played roles that would build this portion of his personality. Some were carry-overs from his club days. He was in turn the tender but dopey husband; the shy, bewildered boy friend; the slap-happy but appealing fighter Rocky; the impish Kupke (stocking cap) Kid.

About his charm, Red says, "I didn't start out to be anything but me. A guy doesn't say to himself, 'For the next half hour I'm going to be humble,' and then the rest of the week be a nothing. I deal in emotions—love, hate, fear, rejection. If what I do turns out for some people to be lovable, fine. But that was the bonus, not the intent."

At the end of Red's first year of TV, he turned down motion picture offers and took the long trek out to Las Vegas. It wasn't for the money. His TV earnings reportedly were around $125,000; the "Ho-Ho" song brought another $25,000. The son of an immigrant hat blocker hadn't had time to spend it all. Red could only be out to show his wares, prove his talent to the real live paying customers in the night club capital.

Strange Things Are Happening

Last November, the little boy errant's dreams of glory came true. Red returned in triumph to the school he put on the map—Evander Childs High School in the Bronx. As guest of honor at alumni festivities, he visited old haunts and former teachers. "If Red had gotten a swelled head, he would have talked down to his teachers," producer Leo Morgan said. "Not Red. When they told him how proud they were of him, Red attributed all his success to luck and the good graces of God."

His wife, Helayne is convinced that "Red isn't any different now—only a little more serious. Red has never needed people. He didn't before and doesn't now. He's just self-sufficient, and other people can't accept that."

Says confidant and adviser Marlo Lewis: "Red and Helayne are two of the most average people you've ever met. At home, nothing ever happens. They sit around and talk family talk."

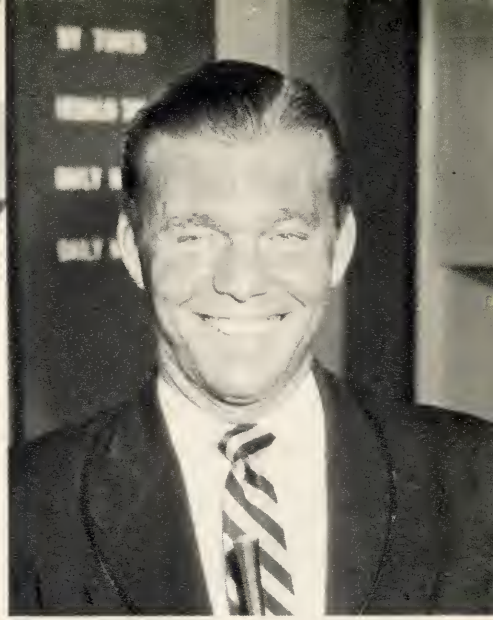
If getting there has been hard, staying there is the real test. Like most performers, Red doesn't see himself in perspective, but sometimes he will take criticism from an outsider. Bibi Osterwald, a singer who has been on his show a number of times, tells about Red rushing into rehearsal with a story about a taxi driver who wanted to know if Red were Red Buttons. When he proudly said, "Yes," the driver, with a cab driver's simplicity told him, "I saw your show last night. Boy, was that a louse." Now it's become a gag. Whenever something goes wrong, Red says, "Boy, was that a louse."

To avoid such shows, Red works at a nervous pitch. People who know him well say after a show, it takes him a half hour to dry off.

His wife says, "This is his personality. And he has to prove his success was no accident. Just as he had to learn that bigness has nothing whatever to do with height."

Not for him: Red finds himself unsuited to the royal robes of pomp and pretense.

IN THE CAST



Jack Lescoulie: doesn't seek stardom.

JACK LESCOULIE, chief interference runner (in charge of remote pick-ups, sports and announcing) for Dave Garroway, likes his job as well as the next man, but is a little leery of its outcome. "I could get killed doing this show," he says.

Though not yet seriously wounded, he once wrestled with a walrus for Garroway's fans. "I wanted to make the interview memorable so I walked into the walrus' cage. Wrestling was the walrus' idea—not mine."

In the line of duty, Lescoulie has also worked out with the N.Y. Giants football team, skied down New York streets in the first snow flurry, and on skates, covered the opening of an ice skating rink. "I had never skied or skated before. I hear I was very funny.

"I held my own just once," Jack says. "As a gag, I had to fence with one of the world's fencing masters. I never told anyone, but at college (U.S.C.) I held the title of fencing champ of California."

Lescoulie's greatest asset on the Garroway or any other show (he also introduces Jackie Gleason and has just been signed to announce the commercial on the Buick-Berle shows) is his cheerfulness, a feat for anyone at 7 a.m., a miracle at 4:00. Garroway calls him "The Vitamin Boy" because he rises daily at 4:00 and shines at 5:00—rehearsal hour.

Born into show business and in vaudeville at seven, Jack has been trombone player, singer, Broadway actor, radio announcer and a combat reporter for the Air Force.

Lescoulie sometimes pinch hits for Garroway, the man he admires most but doesn't envy. "My chief ambition is to be the world's greatest helper. I don't want to devote my life to this business and I don't want a star's responsibilities."

An announcer friend, Harry Von Zell, once drove Jack past Red Skelton's house. According to Jack, the house is very beautiful, very large and in it, lives a harried man. Von Zell then pointed out Don Wilson's house. This one is almost as large, almost as beautiful and Wilson, almost as rich, hasn't a worry in the world. "A good announcer doesn't have to watch his ratings or worry about a sponsor. And he can always get another job," Jack says.

"Of course, if a show were forced upon me, I'd hate to say 'no.'"

THE LUCY-DESI MOVIE

LUCILLE BALL, shown in the wedding scene from M-G-M's "The Long, Long Trailer," and Desi Arnaz are TV's first situation comedy stars to essay a full length movie.

Lucy's first step was to talk Desi into the idea of honeymooning in a trailer.

They looked over the folder and picked out the one they wanted, a real beauty.

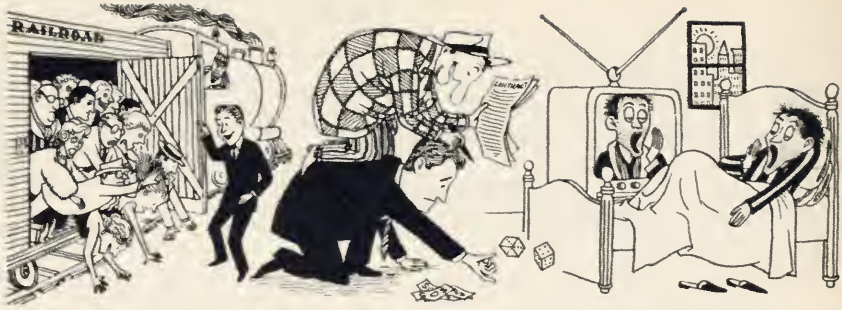
Naturally, they needed an auto to pull

Everything was fine when they set out in their mansion on wheels, but it wasn't long until they found out that a 40-foot trailer requires very special driving skill.

They found a delightful trailer camp and a warm welcome from Ed Dearing.

Desi knocked down a porch and, below, found trailer overrun with visitors.

the trailer and Lucy selected this one.



How To Be Right AND Be President

Persistent Pat Weaver Believes In Stars, Brains And Color For TV

SYLVESTER L. (Pat) WEAVER, Jr., who looks better in color than in black and white, thanks to a shock of red hair and an almost perpetually sun-burned face, is the master-mind at the helm of NBC-TV.

They tell of the time back in 1950 when Pat Weaver was buying up stars by the carload lot: Sid Caesar, Eddie Cantor, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, Fred Allen, Danny Thomas, Kate Smith, to name a few. But no matter how he tried, he couldn't lure Jimmy Durante into the fold.

Jimmy had not reckoned with Pat Weaver. Without tipping off any of his associates, Weaver boarded a plane for Las Vegas, where Durante was staying with his manager, the late Lou Clayton. For four days, the NBC executive lived with Clayton and Durante. He swam with them, rolled dice with them, joined them at night clubs and in their private suites. Durante was adamant until the last night—at the gaming tables Weaver rolled seven successive "sevens," on which Durante made $5,000. That did it. Durante signed the next day.

The shows that Weaver has built include Your Show of Shows; The Comedy Hour; the All Star Review; the Kate Smith Hour, first big afternoon TV show; Broadway Openhouse, which pioneered late-night TV and made stars of Jerry Lester and Dagmar; and Today, which opened up early-morning network TV.

Weaver worked out the idea of rotating stars so they would not have to appear every week and the idea of splitting up the cost of bigtime TV hours among several advertisers. The list of stars Weaver signed up with NBC gold is a roll-call of top-line entertainers in America. Many of them aren't around any more: Jack Carter, for one; Ed Wynn, for another; Jack Carson, for a third; Olsen and Johnson, for a few more. Weaver has also been accused of nepotism in launching a summer show a few years back starring his brother, Doodles. The show laid an egg.

Weaver's first attempts with Fred Allen, whose radio show Town Hall Tonight he produced in the 1930's, also turned sour. But Weaver is the idea man; he leaves to others the problems of working out the details. He once wrote a single-spaced, three-page memorandum on his reasons for starting Today, which unfortunately got into the hands of the press and made him an easy target for the critics. Weaver's grandiose concepts didn't match the reality of the show. But Today accomplished at least the strategic end he wanted—it kicked off early-morning network TV.

Weaver, who claims he reads Herodotus, a Greek historian, in bed, also took a licking in the public press with an idea called "Operation Frontal Lobes," a presumptuous high-brow title for popularizing culture. The title was quickly abandoned, but the quietly-promulgated "Wise Men" series has presented Bertrand Russell, Robert Frost, Wanda Landowska, and others, with rare taste and understanding. Weaver also presided over the launching of Victory at Sea, which has won every major award in the book.

Veteran of Show Business

Forty-five years old, six foot three and freckled-faced, Weaver was born in Los Angeles a few blocks away from the movie lots. Virtually ever since, he has been close to show business except for his formal education, which includes graduating with a Phi Beta Kappa key from Dartmouth College, where he majored in classical civilizations.

After a brief fling inspecting classical ruins in Europe, he plunged into radio as a writer and producer. His career was, as they say, "meteoric," and at the age of 30 he had become advertising manager for Lucky Strike cigarets. He traveled widely with the Jack Benny show, which he produced along with many of the other top radio programs of the 1930's. Once, when Don Wilson became ill five minutes before air time, Weaver grabbed the script and went on as Benny's announcer.

For Thinking—$90,000

For a while last year, NBC put the $90,000 executive to pasture to ruminate about television. He was upped from vice president in charge of television to vice chairman of the board—and left to think. It didn't last long. When color became a predominant issue, Weaver was called back into the game to call the chromatic signals. Within a few months, he was also back as vice president in charge of television operations. A short time later he was president of the network.

Weaver has a "rapport" with entertainers that only an ex-writer, director, and producer could have. Of all NBC top brass, he's the only one who dares to ad lib with the top comedians. Someone once asked him how he got along with the fabulous tobacco tycoon, George Washington Hill. Weaver stuffed his arm up his sleeve and waved the empty flap: "I've had him eating out of my hand."

Our Awards "King"

Many, many thanks for your TV GUIDE awards program. It was terrific and so was Howard Miller. We teenagers love him. Long may he reign as king of the Windy City!—Monica Marlaine and June O'Shay, Chicago.

Long Vacation Urged

Your review of Foreign Intrigue states the new star, James Daly, is being given a vacation now and then, so that those watching the program won't tire of him. We are tired already, so please get that fine boy in the trenchcoat, Jerome Thor, back as the star. He was a far better actor.—Doris Clarke and Gilda Lencioni, Chicago.

Thor

Quiz on Quizzer

I am 84 years old, and in my youth in the 1880's and 1890's, I was a singer in light opera and musical shows. The Wilbur Opera Company of Boston in those days had a stage manager named Jay J. Jackson. In many ways he resembled the Jay Jackson who is the moderator on Twenty Questions. The resemblance was not only in appearance, but in mannerisms and voice. I would like to know if the two men are connected in any way.—Mrs. B. P. Webber, Chicago. (No, the present whipcracker of Twenty Questions is a much younger man. He comes from Waverly, Ohio, and there's no indication he's related to the man you knew.—Ed.)

Frustrated Male Chef

Why are TV cooking shows limited to mornings? We men like to cook, too. I saw WGN-TV's A to Z of Cookery while on vacation, and it was terrific. I'd enjoy watching more TV cooking lessons, if I could.—R. E., Westchester, Ill. ('Till TV cooperates, why not follow and try TV GUIDE's new weekly series of regional recipes. Top video chefs are offering these recipes for publication—Ed.)

Poetry Corner

Ralph Edwards on his December 30th This Is Your Life honoring artist Pansy Stockton read some "Prose and Verse" written by her late husband. I haven't heard anything to equal it for years. I would appreciate it if you could tell how I might get a copy of the fine "Prose and Verse" booklet that was read.—*Mrs. A. J. Forse, Waukegan, Ill. Miltie's Real Missus

Will you please settle this argument for me? Someone I know says Milton Berle married Ruthie Gilbert, the girl called Max on his program. I say he didn't, but that he married another girl named Ruth whose name I have forgotten. Who is right?—J. Holdman, Aurora, Ill. (You are. He recently married a girl named Ruth Cosgrove and not comedienne Ruth Gilbert who is featured on his show.—Ed.)

THE GLEASON TUMBLE

Several million people saw Jackie Gleason, CBS television star, slip and fall during his January 30 telecast. He was immediately rushed to the hospital. There it was found he had broken two bones in his right ankle.

These kinescope films of his program tell the story of the fall more clearly than most people can remember it. The four-picture sequence shows Jackie heading for the door, slipping, falling, and Art Carney rushing to his aid.

Moran, the Trend Spotter

WHAT'S NEXT FOR

Jim "Back to the Farm" Moran, flanked by some of the singers, dancers and merrymakers often seen on Courtesy's Barn Dance.

COURTLY Jim Moran, whose Courtesy Hour (10 PM, Fri. WBKB) won TV GUIDE's 1953 award for the best local TV variety show, is not one to be cowed by skepticism. When Moran determined back in 1948 to have a go at that new phenomenon, television, friends thought he was making a fatal financial error. Again in later years, when the towheaded Irishman decided to present Courtesy barn dance shows, doubts sprung up anew.

But in both instances, Moran proved the doubters wrong. His giant auto agency which sprawls over four square blocks of Chicago's northwest side, is proof of the bonanza he struck with his TV salesmanship.

What happened in the Barn Dance episode is a story in itself. The first of these farmyard jamborees was staged last year as a one-shot show. Many of Moran's Courtesy associates were worried about its reception. Chicago's populace, it was feared, was too blase for such corn-cultured entertainment. But the show came back for encore after encore. Local folk-fun artists like Red Blanchard, Homer & Jethro, Capt. Stubby and the Buccaneers, became as popular as Liberace is with the ladies. The show is now a Friday night fixture on alternate weeks. And since the Courtesy Man triumphed with these TV hoedowns, a bumper crop of country-style variety shows have sprung up. Here again Moran seems to have started or spotted a trend.

A New Look

Meanwhile, Courtesy Hour itself was not being neglected. To spark the popular variety presentation, better lighting, better scenery and better methods of production were introduced, Moran has had Leo Salkin, canny talent booker, curry-combing the country for "name" acts. Singers Clark Dennis and Josh White, comics Buddy Lester and Joey Bishop, the Harmonicats are recent Courtesy headliners recruited by Leo.

Attention has also been generously given to Courtesy Theater, Moran's Sunday night (10 PM) film series on WGN-TV. Jim was the first to show prize foreign films, such as Open City and Paisan.

"No sponsor," states Moran, "should be content to let a show vegetate. Innovations and changes are always needed."

Right now, for example, Courtesy Hour programmers are considering doing "remotes," such as staging an aquacade from a local pool or an ice show if a rink could be found. They're even alert for color TV, which is still, of course, only a glow on the horizon.

The one thing most characteristic of Moran is probably his willingness to experiment. It may stem from the self-reliance he was forced to cultivate as a youth in the depression. Put flatly on his resources after high school, Jim began as an ambitious gas pump jockey. By World War II. he had a station of his own, and in three years, three more.

In the post-war era, after a two year hitch in the infantry, Moran acquired a small auto agency. His business savvy soon put the company on a paying basis, and his foresight about television did the rest. Today, Courtesy Motors, Moran's little empire, grosses $26,000,000 a year.

Jim escapes from the pressure of competition (wolf-fierce among car dealers) in a typical family-man fashion. He relaxes at his home with wife, Arline, Jim, Jr. 5, Patricia 8, and Kitchie 10.

Jim also keeps fit by a daily diet of workouts at the Illinois Athletic Club. Although he should get his exercise just from climbing out on a limb so often.

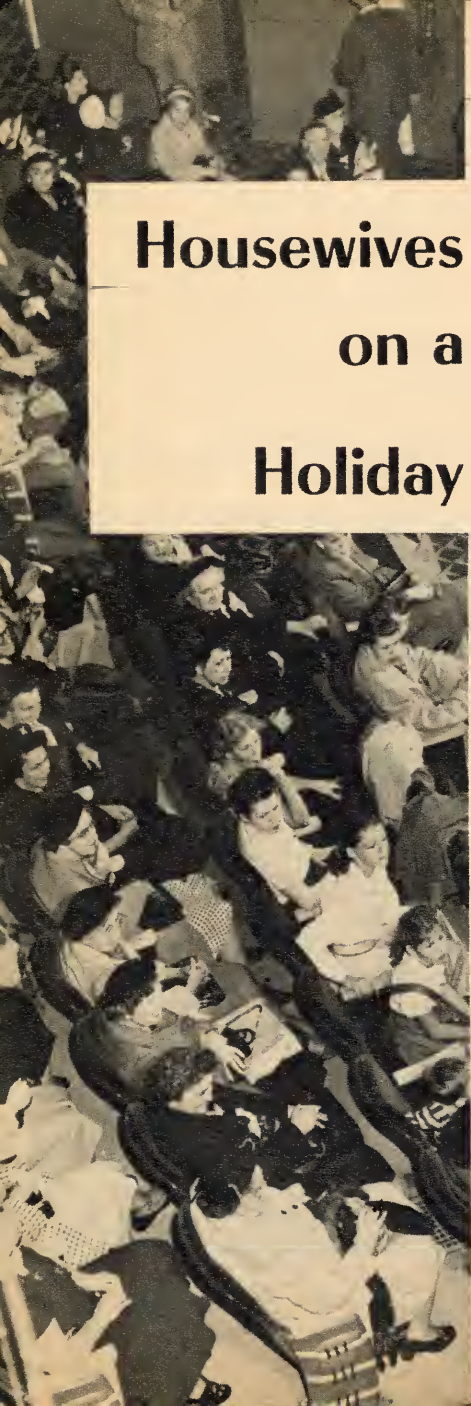
The late, beloved Chicago comic Willie Shore on the Courtesy Hour. Here Jim happily plays "straight man" for Willie.



Housewives on a Holiday

DO YOU WANT TO BE

Beaming Mike Douglas, emcee of WGN-TV's Hi Ladies, explains the intricacies of a television camera to five smiling ladies.

LADIES, television is looking for YOU. A number of local TV shows offer you not only the fun of being interviewed on camera, but the chance to win valuable gifts—no mink coats or trips to Paris, but still fine prizes.

Herewith is a pictorial round-up on those Chicago-originated TV programs which feature audience participation:

Hi Ladies: (12-12:30 PM, Mon. through Fri., WGN-TV (9).) Mike Douglas acts as singing emcee and interviews studio guests who are presented with orchids, records, etc. Tickets are offered only to groups such as clubs and societies. Requests should be sent to the Home Arts Guild, 205 N. Michigan, Chicago, Ill.

Claude Kirchner Show: (2-2:30 PM, Mon. through Fri., WBKB (7).) Claude interviews members of the studio audience. The show is open only to groups. No individual prizes are given, but groups attending receive merchandise awards. Ticket requests should be addressed to Claude Kirchner, 360 N. Michigan, Chicago, Ill.

Danny O'Neil Show: (11-11:55 AM,

ON TV?

Welcome Travelers host Tommy Bartlett helps a little blind girl aboard his plane. He flew the girl, and her parents, to Minneapolis for eye surgery that restored her vision. The trip was "won" on the TV show.

Emcee Frazier Thomas of Petticoat Party supervises a messy flour-sifting contest. Such highjinks spark the program.

Mon. through Fri., WBKB (7).) Danny emcees and interviews. Tickets are dispensed only to groups. Each lady in the group attending receives foodstuffs and several are given the chance at a jackpot prize. Requests should be sent to Danny O'Neil, WBKB, Chicago 6.

Petticoat Party: (3-3:30 PM, Mon. through Fri., WBBM-TV (2).) Frazer Thomas emcees. Ladies compete in stunts and games. Winners and losers receive merchandise awards. Guests are invited to Garrick Theater. No tickets necessary.

Welcome Travelers: (3-3:30 PM, Mon. through Fri., WNBQ (5).) Tommy Bartlett is host, interviewing visitors, most of whom are travelers with interesting stories to tell. Sizable prizes are given out, usually on the basis of "hardship." Tickets can be had by writing Guest Relations, WNBQ, Chicago 54.

More and more women are turning to attending local television shows, as an enjoyable way of escaping from domestic toil or turmoil. And it should be noted—men are invited, too.

Miller KO's Duggan on ratings . . .

WE CONCEDE! . . . We concede the fact that Tom Duggan fans are as vociferous as the noisy sportscaster. And because of them, we are forced to discuss the latest tabulations on the Duggan-Eigen-Miller rhubarb started in this column several weeks ago.

Eigen

Miller

Duggan

It all began when Duggan, furious about his low ARB ratings, branded TV GUIDE award winner Howard Miller as insipid and WBKB's Jack Eigen show as nauseous . . . Eigen struck back—referring to Duggan as the meat-head whose only claim to fame was a "pink slip." . . . Miller, who had the best ARB ratings, chose to snub it all. And we, much to our dismay, asked our readers to write us their opinions on this controversial trio. The response, needless to say, was tumultuous.

Tom "Perpetual Commotion" Duggan has managed to improve his ratings. His late-evening show inflated from an anemic 1.0 to a decent 3.4. He was even made an honorary member in the plumber's union.

Caustic Jack Eigen slipped to a 1.7 average from a 2.3 rating he had some weeks back.

And, this will come as a shock to Duggan die-hards, Howard Miller zoomed from an impressive 8.8 to a whistle-provoking 17.9! . . . Oh, well, there's always a need for plumbers.

7 PHILLIES FIGHTS—Boxing
Garth Panter vs. Jesse Turner, middleweights, 10 rounds, from Salt Lake City.

JIMMY POWERS' RATING

	Rated	W	L	D	KO's
Panter	14	52	13	2	36
Turner	12	34	11	5	19

This is a real slambang offering. Although both were losers on their last TV showings, their styles blend here to make it a hair-raiser. Panter, the local boy, will be all out to show his Utah neighbors that he is a far better fighter than his last showing against Giordello. He can punch fairly well, as his record indicates, but he'll have to have added TNT to put Turner on his back. Turner is a tough hombre who keeps going from the opening bell, which should be a big help to Garth. He finds boxers most difficult to cope with. I pick Panter, and his victory will satisfy a packed arena.

JIMMY POWERS' RATING:

	Rated	W	L	D	KO's
Patterson	9	9	0	0	7
Durelle	not	20	5	0	9

This is an international light-heavyweight bout. Durelle is the former Canadian 175-lb. champion. Patterson, fast rising as a pro, was the 1951 Olympic Champion. Floyd looked real champion material on Dec. 14, when he stopped Dick Wagner in five. Durelle is a newcomer to the New York boxing front. No one seems to have a line on his style or ability. I like Patterson. A victory here could pave the way for an early meeting with the ex-champ, Joey Maxim.

The Starnoters

No Unemployment Problem Here

NEXT to a test pattern or Arthur Godfrey, the Starnoters are probably seen most often on Chicago television. Every time a viewer flicks the dial to Channel 9, he's apt to see WGN-TV's versatile musical crew.

The boys are currently providing accompaniment, background music and tuneful specialty numbers on five WGN-TV shows: Four to Go (11 AM, Mon. through Fri.); Watch to Win (1 PM, Mon. through Fri.); Talent Tots (5:30 PM, Thur.); Talent Showcase (8:30 PM, Thur.) and Music Show (9 PM Wed.).

Their steady TV employment is pay-off evidence of their talents. All four can cite an impressive personal background in the hectic pop music field. Each has mastered several instruments, and in some tricky arrangements they sound like a mammoth ensemble.

Comprising the foursome are Sam Porfirio, Ben Carlton, Jack Golly and Fred Kissling. Sam excels on the accordion, piano and celeste; Ben strums bass fiddle, banjo and guitar; Jack, a well-winded fellow, tackles clarinet, sax and bass clarinet; Fred, last of the triple-threats, is a virtuoso on the bass fiddle, vibraharp and drums.

Despite such a bewildering array of instruments, the lads concentrate on harmony. They key their offerings around a blend of smooth music. Ben, who does the original arrangements for the group, is an admirer of the late and great Glenn Miller's style.

When they got into the lush broadcasting field in 1947, the lads were branded as the T-M Bar Ranch Boys. Under this name, they made their radio debut on WGN. Three years later, they were tagged for video by sister station, WGN-TV. Since then, they've been waist-high in TV engagements.

One factor in the quick and sustained success of the Starnoters is their flair for clowning. Hams to the bone, they perform like four refugees from the Spike Jones orchestra. (Jack, in fact, was featured with that mad aggregation for two years as player and arranger.) For their zany routines, the Starnoters have huge "gag bags," crammed with wigs, mustaches, phony noses, hillbilly garb and the like. All these comic trappings get a workout. Yet, no matter how much they hoke it up, it's obvious that, first and foremost, they're fine musicians.

meet Julian Bentley

Recognition is hard to establish in the newscasting profession. Generally, newscasters fall into a potpourri of lost identities. Sometimes, though, you can recognize them by a peculiar trademark. WBBM-TV's Julian Bentley, for example, has a couple of trademarks which distinguish him from all other dispensers of news.

His peculiar sign-off, "73 and Good Night," harks back to the old telegrapher's code which meant "Best Wishes." Then there's his interpretation of world and national news which is strangely Midwestern in tone, a trait that's due, no doubt, to his strong Illinois background.

Born in Big Foot Prairie, Ill., he was educated at Knox College and University of Chicago. In nearly 25 years of journalistic endeavor, he served as feature writer for United Press, news editor for WLS, news editor and columnist for Prairie Farmer magazine, and war correspondent in Germany, France, Scotland and Wales.

Bentley is married to the former Ruth Coleman, a free lance artist and writer. When not compiling news, he's concentrating on his first love, his dairy farm in northern Illinois.

Philosophical and topical subjects.

DEAR BOSS:

The McCarthy Award of the Month goes to a man never seen on television, Bill Nelson. He's the one who picked lovely Nancy Wright to do the commercials on Bob Atcher's Sunday afternoon variety show. Us cowboys over 21 appreciate those decisions. Nancy has proved singing isn't her only specialty.

Been jotting down something I want to talk to you about. Like Tom Duggan. For a long time now I've thought Tom would be best as MC on an afternoon woman's show. If my two-headed mother-in-law is any judge of men, Tom can outsmile, outjoke and outdistance all other local matinee idols. Let him forget about sports completely.

Then there's Alex Dreier. Someone should take away his "Man on the Go" title. The only shows I've seen are those where he is desk-bound.

Just once I'd like to see Ken Nordine do a guest appearance on Super Circus. There's an even chance Cliffy, Nicky and Scampy could get stone-faced Nordine to break down.

The next panel show to come up should reserve a chair for Clint Youle. He may have more fun messing up weather maps with black grease pencils but the boy is a natural for anchor man. His clowning on a recent guest appearance brought it all to light.

That news about the Breakfast Club coming back is good. We know if Aunt Fanny gets on camera the show will click. But what about the other 50 minutes?

BUICK-BERLE SHOW

PROGRAM OF THE WEEK

GEORGE JESSEL once said that the only permanent thing in show business is change. The Milton Berle Show is offered as proof.

Berle was Mr. Television himself as far back as 1948. In those early days he had only to dress up in women's clothes or black out his front teeth or throw a pie in somebody's face to stop the wheels of commerce from 8 P.M. to 9 P.M. of a Tuesday.

What Berle forgot to do was change. New shows and new faces were coming along in droves, but Berle ignored the warning signals. Not until he had slipped to the point of near-disaster a year and a half ago could he be prevailed upon to mend his ways. The solution was simplicity itself: they brought in writer Goodman Ace.

Since Ace's advent, the Berle show has changed completely and improved enormously. The dog-eared variety acts have all but disappeared. A concrete story line has been added. Two new characters, Arnold Stang as the stagehand and Ruth Gilbert as Max, Berle's secretary, have brought both depth and new humor to the proceedings.

Such guest star powerhouses as Tallulah Bankhead, Frank Sinatra, Jack Webb, Martha Raye, Peter Lawford, Carol Channing and Mickey Spillane have been written solidly into the scripts. And Berle himself has been toned down considerably. The change has done him a world of good.

BOB HOPE tells all!

Painting by Norman Rockwell

Here's Bob's laugh-a-minute life story—told in his own words. He's even funnier on the page than he is on the stage. Don't miss This Is On Me. Look for the Post with Norman Rockwell's painting of Hope on the cover.

FINE TUNING

By OLLIE CRAWFORD

SEATTLE prison installs coin-box TV sets in cells. This must be what they mean by a captive audience.

The unluckiest prisoner is the guy who sent in box tops and won an all-expense trip to Mexico.

One prisoner is all set because he has a 20-year sentence and his quarters full of quarters. He's the one fellow who can see himself on This Is Your Life while watching Dragnet. He watched one comic on TV and said: "And for what I did, they gave me 20 years."

His mistake was in trying to Strike It Rich at four o'clock in the morning.

Then there's the old-time safecracker who sandpapers his fingertips before turning the dials. The only thing that annoys him is announcers who say: "We'll be back in a minute. Don't go away now."

One pickpocket is so clever, he puts quarters in the slot and then picks them out again.

This boy even picked Jack Benny's pocket, right off the screen. All he got was a handful of candy mints, painted to look like dimes.

Breath Takes A Holiday

THERE is a feeling here, maybe or maybe not shared by the clients, that too many of the essays in this space have been marked by a note of—well, churlishness. This is a disturbing thought, because it suggests that there are flaws in the disposition of the writer. In fact, the fault almost certainly lies in this quarter, for it does not seem reasonable that a medium as popular as television could really be as objectionable as it often seems to me.

This, then, is an exercise in soul-searching. A need is felt to find some aspect of sports-on-television which may be applauded without reservation. Only thus may a curmudgeon find salvation.

By rare good fortune, just such an opportunity offers itself. Surely everyone who owns a television set must have seen and/or heard Jimmy Powers many times. This is inevitable, unless there are people who can afford to buy a set for the sheer pleasure of tuning everything out.

Well, now for the applause. A great many people whose judgment I respect have declared a great many times in my hearing that in their opinion Jimmy Powers is the best commentator on fights that television has presented up to now.

Invariably, the reason given for this opinion is the same: "He never says anything. He has the sense to keep his mouth shut and let you watch the fight."

There is a text for a sermon there, if only we could find it. Maybe the point is that when a viewer tunes in a sports event he does so because he wants to see the event, rather than to hear a golden voice describing it.

Not long ago there was a fight card in some town where the commentator —somebody else, not Powers—babbled and chattered and gaggled interminably, with the camera on him, of course. At long last, his audience heard him say, "Okay, Joe, any time you're ready." And with that the ring announcer, who had been waiting obsequiously, introduced the fighters and the bout went on.

Powers does not make this mistake. He specializes in the deathlike hush. Once in a while he'll say "Martinez in the black trunks, Casillo in the white." Thoughtfully, he'll add, "One minute to go in round three." That's about all, expect that between rounds when there's no commercial he may read off a list of red-headed, left-handed, gray-eyed fighters who have appeared in the Garden since 1925.

It is enormously restful. Of course, if the man who talks least is the best commentator, then it follows logically that the perfect commentator would be either a deaf mute or a dead man. But let's reason no further on that line. That way lies chaos.

REGIONAL RECIPES:

In Cleveland, It's Sister Lettie's Buttermilk Biscuits

CLEVELAND is steeped in the history and culture of the Shakers and their fine food.

So the choice of regional recipes for Ethel Jackson, slim, blonde cooking expert on The Women's Window, WEWS, was not hard: Sister Lettie's Buttermilk Biscuits, an authentic recipe of the Shakers, a religious society which in 1820 founded a colony east of downtown Cleveland where now is located one of the city's loveliest suburbs, Shaker Heights.

Ethel Jackson: WEWS food authority at work on another dish. This one boasts sweet potatoes, apples and maple syrup.

Ethel thinks the Shaker recipe is as interesting in background as it is in taste. The Shakers were—are would be more accurate; a handful still exist—communal living people who banned smoking, drinking, marriage and, at one time, meat. They were people dedicated to "consecrated labor." The sect was founded by a woman, Ann Lee. And "Mother Ann" insisted that her feminine followers be top-notch homemakers. In time, the Shaker women became known as excellent cooks.

Shaker communities numbered from 200 to 600 souls, so the women learned to work with vast amounts of food. Sister Lettie's recipe has been cut from its original proportions to smaller, workable amounts for today's average family. The reduced recipe has been tested and found just as good as the old.

SISTER LETTIE'S BUTTERMILK BISCUITS

2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
3 tablespoons butter
¾ cup buttermilk

Sift dry ingredients together. Cut in butter finely. Stir in buttermilk. Knead lightly. Roll or pat out about ¾ inch thick. Cut with small cutter. Bake in pre-heated very hot oven (450°) for 12 minutes or until golden-brown.

It's Tallulah, Darlings

THE THEATER'S only living legend, Tallulah Bankhead, greeted us at the door shivering in lounging pajamas and a cigaret, both of which she sported during the whole fantastic day of the interview. Secluded in "Windows," a beautiful old rambling house 60 miles from New York, at the end of a climbing cow path ten miles from where the macadam ends, overlooking God's green acres and a swimming pool, lives the woman extraordinaire, who more than anything else in the world, loathes being alone.

No isolationist, politically or socially, she houses three dogs, a cat, a Myna bird, a chauffeur, a cook, her secretary, Edie Smith, any number of neuroses, and on weekends, any variety of high- and low-brows.

The idyllic "Windows" erupts spasmodically, along with Tallulah. She'd stay there forever, never working, "if the wolf and Bureau of Internal Revenue would stay away from my door."

Southern Ham

Admittedly lazy and a ham, she comes out of hibernation "only for money, dahling," including the Jimmy Durante show date and U.S. Steel Hour's "Hedda Gabler." She has other offers. "I hate to say whose. If I turn anyone down I give the man a black eye and I don't want to give those dahling Goodson-Todman boys a black eye. But I'm advised that panel shows are on their way out." Bill Todman, who hasn't heard the news about panel shows, says, "We have an audience participation show in the works, tailor-made for Tallu." And he's convinced she's convinced.

She's thinking more seriously about a situation comedy, a Fred Coe offspring. But with the wolf still at a distance, she reads through the night and sleeps through the day. Since she reads prone, with Doloras, a Maltese poodle, slung somehow around the top of her head, like a halo, she can't abide heavy books. "I'll wager I'm the only person who ever read 'Gone With the Wind' at one session," she claims. "But it weighed so much, I ripped it in half. Read first one part, then the other—like that," she tore an imaginary book in two.

Not an outdoor girl, she rarely rises before three, ventures into the open only in summer. "Dahling, I'm so unathletic, I've got a 60 foot pool that I've never seen the other end of."

Tallulah is a determined Giant rooter. As a born Confederate, she has a distaste for all things Yankee, from baseball to pot roast.

She rarely remembers names, although she's remarkably adroit at anything concerning Tallulah. "I haven't been to the theater in seven years and a movie in 10. At the ball park, I blow my gasket if the Giants win, and I blow it if they lose. Either way I come home dead—a wreck."

London Belle

For all who weren't around for Tallulah's first triumph 30 years ago, she was the belle of London at 21. She was born the second daughter of the great beauty, Adelaide, and the ambitious young lawyer, Will Bankhead, who was to become a Congressman and later, Speaker of the House. When Tallulah returned after her storming of the Isles, she was tagged "a second Marlene Dietrich."

Back on Broadway, she appeared in a series of dismal flops, mediocre flops, and three or four plays that rated no score at all. She finally hit her stride as the predatory Regina Giddens in Lillian Hellman's "The Little Foxes," again as Sabina in Wilder's "The Skin of Our Teeth," and came off with the New York film critics award for her portrayal of a newspaper woman in the Hitchcock film, "Lifeboat."

Glamorous, Unpredictable

By the time she stampeded into radio via NBC's "The Big Show" she had worked up a reputation for being "fabulous, incredible, tempestuous, a character," which she resents violently.

She talks endlessly, in paragraphs rather than sentences. She shows a distinct preference for prancing over walking. And she can throw a tantrum at the block of most any whim. This particular talent was perfected at the age of five when Daddy took sister (Eugenia) off on a picnic and left Tallulah home. Tallu flung herself on the floor, "got purple in the face and screamed blue murder." Grandmother squelched both the tantrum and the young Bankhead with a bucket of cold water.

Her voice is her trademark, and although she sings in a virtual bass, she claims perfect pitch. "The gags about my voice didn't just happen," she confided. "I haven't always sounded like the low end of a foghorn. But by the time I was six, I had the croup, whooping cough, pneumonia, mumps, tonsillitis, measles; everything settled right here in my chest." She pounded, proving its whereabouts.

"I figured Durante has his nose, Benny has his miserliness, I would have my voice. But Bob Hope clinched it. He introduced me on 'The Big Show,' saying that I was going to sing, 'Give My Regards to Seventh Avenue.' I corrected him, 'You mean, Broadway, Bob.' He told me, 'Tallulah, you'll always be a block away.' "

During the tour of "Windows," so named because it has 75 of them, Tallulah pointed out her prized possessions, ranging from her Augustus John portrait, which she values at $100,000, to Precious, the puppet designed for her by Burr Tillstrom.

She displayed her Myna bird, Cleo, and asked it to repeat her name.

"Say Tallulah," said Tallulah.

"Birds can't talk," said Cleo.

Except Maybe Rosselini

At the door, Tallu charged, "I'll bet you're going home to write that I'm utterly mad, just like people expect me to be. It's that stupid typing." But though she defies being typed, and a trillion other natural laws, she conceded, "It's true. If it had been me who ran off with Rosselini, no one would have given it a thought."

She swaps gags with Bert Lahr on comedy show but does just as good a job in a dramatic role.

Television Valentines

Milton Berle to Milton Berle

On Valentine's Day, I plead guilty; my favorite star is Uncle Miltie.

Jack Webb to Ben Alexander

The card is real, and I've arranged, that nothing but the name is changed.

Baron Leone to Gorgeous George

Valentine's Day, you I beseech; teach me some holds, lend me your bleach.

Julius LaRosa to Arthur Godfrey

Once I was humble, but now I'm in clover; suppose I come back, and you fire me all over?

Here's a spread Bob Taylor offered,
Blame the verse on Ollie Crawford.

Rocky Graziano to Martha Raye

I fought 12 years to get this way;
what's your excuse, dear Martha Raye?

Red Buttons to Gypsy Rose Lee

They're eying me, instead of you;
since I got out of Burly-Q.

Lucille Ball to Desi Arnaz

I send no hearts, but spades instead;
I'm signing nothing more that's red

THE RIGHT TELEVISION ANTENNA FOR

Answer To Poor Reception May Be On Your Rooftop

AWAY up on your roof, where most people pay little attention to it, rests what may well be the key to satisfactory televiewing—your antenna.

For most viewers it may come as a shock to learn that engineers contend these antennas—and they number more than 15,000,000 throughout the Nation—should not be lightly regarded. For example, Harold Harris, vice president of Channel Master Corp., one of the largest antenna producers, says that an average set with an excellent antenna will outperform a top set with a poor antenna.

So let's look into the subject.

Chief factor in the selection of an antenna is distance. Viewers living near the telecasting station are said to be in a "primary" area. Those in the suburbs are in a "secondary" area, while people living far out in the country are classified as "fringe" area video viewers. Each group needs a different type of antenna installation and producers have developed a variety of types to meet ordinary or special needs of all set-owners.

Other factors to consider are:

1. Type of terrain. The flatter the land, the farther a TV signal can travel.
2. The presence of tall buildings, hills, or other reflecting surfaces. These cause "ghosts" on the TV screen.
3. The number of television stations serving the area. These may be VHF, (Channels 2 through 13) or UHF (Channels 14 through 83.)

The function of an antenna is to pick the picture wave out of the air and feed it to the set. The antenna is an integral part of the television set itself. Electronic engineers have outlined a few of the unhappy results when an antenna does not do its job or a wrong antenna is selected.

YOU

"Snow": electronic noise within the TV set that usually shows up when only a weak signal can be received. All action seems to take place in the midst of an Alaskan blizzard. The more powerful the antenna, the more effectively it can reduce "snow" by bringing in a stronger signal. In fringe areas, this is a common problem.

"Ghosts": double or triple images occurring when the antenna picks up a signal directly from the transmitter, and a split second later, an identical signal of the image reflected off a building, hill or watertower in the general vicinity of the set.

The selection of a proper antenna can do much to reduce and even eliminate these troubles. Here are types to choose from:

VHF ANTENNAS for Channels 2-13

Tri-Pole Antenna: basically new kind; provides powerful reception.

Hi-Lo Antenna: moderate power, used only in strong signal areas.

Fan Type: all-channel antenna. There are more fan types installed throughout the country than any other.

Yagi: a single or multiple channel antenna for long distance reception.

UHF ANTENNAS for Channels 14-83

Bow-Tie: popular all-channel antenna.

Corner Reflector and Twin Corner Reflector: very powerful all channel fringe area antenna.

Yagi: powerful fringe antenna covering a limited number of channels.

VHF AND UHF COMBINATION for Channels 2-83

Fan and Bow Tie Combination: combination of the fan and bow tie built into a single antenna structure. Receives all channels.
